News Release

For Immediate Release: December 11, 2015

Haleko Road scheduled to reopen Dec. 15 One-lane closure on Pua Loke Street begins Dec. 16

LIHUE – Haleko Road will reopen around mid-morning on Tuesday, Dec. 15, weather permitting. This will mark the end of Phase 4 of utility and intersection improvements for the Department of Water's (DOW) Lihue Baseyard Improvements Project.

"We would like to thank the public and nearby businesses for enduring the delays and many detours throughout the construction on Haleko Road," said Dustin Moises, DOW's construction project management officer. "We appreciate your patience and cooperation, and hope the paving and sidewalk improvements made during our utility work benefits the community long-term."

The intersection's final phase of construction will begin Wednesday, Dec. 16, weather permitting. The final phase will close a portion of Pua Loke Street towards the DOW and the Department of Land and Natural Resources – Division of Forestry and Wildlife.

Two-way traffic will still be allowed through the area, although intermittent one-way traffic may occur. Traffic control will be in place.

Work hours are from 7 a.m. to 3:30 p.m., Monday through Friday.

Motorists are advised to proceed with caution through the work area and allow extra time to get to their destinations.

This final phase of utility work is anticipated to complete by early January 2016.
